

Contents

List of Illustrations	xi
Acknowledgments	xiii
Abbreviations	xvii
Introduction
Un-national Soldiers in Southern Africa during and after     Decolonization	I
1 “The Ovambos Did Not Take Part in the War against the Germans” Fractures and Divisions in Colonial Namibia and Southern Angola	21
2 “We Live between Two Fires” The Reasons for Joining the Apartheid Security Forces in Northern Na-     mibia, 1975–89	45
3 “The War Was Very Complicated” The Formation and Development of 32 Battalion, 1975–84	67
4 “Every Force Has Its Own Rules” The Military Cultures of South Africa’s Security Forces     in Namibia and Angola	93
5 “Dictation Comes from the Victor” The Postwar Politics of Black Former Soldiers in Namibia,     1989–2014	122
6 “We Are Lost People” Citizenship and Belonging of Black Former Soldiers in     South Africa, 1989 to the Present	151
Conclusion
Un-national Wars of Decolonization and Their Legacies	179

Contents

Notes	187
Note on Interviews Conducted by the Author	239
Bibliography	241
Index	263